

My School is Still Closed

© Meredith Polsky 2020. Exclusive and restricted permission is hereby granted to print this story for use with an individual or small group in a home, educational or clinical setting. May not be altered. May not be used for financial gain. Requests for personalization or modification can be submitted at www.meredithpolsky.com. All other rights and restrictions apply.

Every morning, I wake up, have breakfast and get dressed. I am ready to go to school.

I love school! I get to play with my friends and teachers, sing songs and have snack.

I want to go to school, but it is still closed!

I did not know school would be closed for such a long time. My grown-ups didn't know either.

I miss my teachers and my friends. I miss the toys at school and I miss singing all together.

Sometimes I see my teachers and friends on the computer. Sometimes I talk to them on the phone. But it's not the same as school.

Sometimes I feel happy when I see my teachers and friends on the computer. But sometimes I feel sad or even mad. I just want to go to school!

My teachers want to go to school, too! They like when I give them hugs, and they hold my hand. They miss seeing me at school.

When will school be open? My grown-ups say they don't know.

It is hard not knowing when I will go back to school.

It is okay to feel sad or mad that school is still closed.

When I feel sad or mad, I can draw a picture to send to my teacher, sing my favorite school song, or remember something funny my friend said.

I can give my grown-ups a tight squeeze, snuggle with my favorite stuffed animal, or practice breathing like a snake.

Even though I still miss school, those things help me feel better.

Now I can help my friends feel better when they are sad or mad that school is still closed!

